This Subaru WRX is customized with MOMO Catania wheels sized 18×9.5 in the front and 18×9.5 in the rear, featuring a Gloss Black finish

This Metallic Rootbeer Brown Subaru WRX Evo Eye is one sick looking build. Coming from Vibe Motorsports in California, this particular Scoobie definitely ticks all the tuning boxes. The vehicle features several clean carbon fiber aero parts, a pretty good lowering, a sick looking Metallic Rootbeer Brown wrap and a set of MOMO Catania wheels. In all, this is one of the cleanest & utmost striking Subaru WRX builds we've seen to date and Vibe Motorsports definitely did a great job on this build.

For a starting price of just $27,495, the Subaru WRX is hard to look over as a high-performance daily driver. Featuring a 2.0 Liter turbocharged Subaru Boxer engine, producing a rather sweet exhaust note, this vehicle is also quite capable both on and off the track. Delivering 268 horsepower and 258lb-ft of torque, this vehicle is capable of going from 0-62mph (0-100km/h) in just 6.2 seconds. And yes, you get that rather capable Subaru Symmetrical All-Wheel Drive system as well, helping you channel your inner WRC driver on various surfaces. Overall, the Subaru WRX is one capable car and it definitely looks aggressive from the factory floor. However, for some owners that just won't be enough. Hence, adding a few aftermarket touches like the MOMO Catania wheels should do the trick for them.

The MOMO Catania wheels feature a classic mesh design inspired by the company's storied motorsports past. Featuring a recessed drop center, the MOMO Catania offers a multidimensional design to match its aggressive fitments. Using an engineered inner barrel to accommodate large breaks, the Catania's flow-formed construction creates a strong and lightweight aftermarket wheel. For this Subaru WRX, these MOMO Catania wheels are sized 18×9.5 in the front and 18×9.5 in the rear. The wheels feature a Gloss Black finish, joined by a red MOMO centercap logo, working well with the Rootbeer Brown matte exterior of the vehicle.
